BAYONETS SAVED HILL TO BRITISH

Height No. 60 Almost Retaken by German Attacks.

BEAT AT OWN GAME

"Eyewitness" Tells of Increased Love of Britons in Trench-fighting Methods.

By HERBERT TEMPLE.

London, April 22.—Taken by surprise by the suddenness of the British attack that resulted in the capture of Hill No. 60, the German defenders offered almost no resistance at the outset, but after the English troops had gained their first advantage the Kaiser's soldiers fought desperately to recapture the hill.

Despite their heavy losses, the Germans maintained their counter-attacks by day and by night, only to be completely checked. Assault after assault was made by the Germans under a gallant artillery fire that raked their ranks.

These facts are set forth in an official eyewitness narrative from British headquarters, under date of April 20, and issued by the government press bureau today.

"The attack on Hill No. 60 began at 7 p. m. on April 17, when five heavily armed battalions under the German position, blowing up a length of trench with 150 men, nearly all of whom perished," says the narrative.

Dislodged with Bayonets.

"Within a few minutes our infantry rushed the enemy's line and gained possession of 250 yards. So almost no resistance at the outset, but after the assault carried out that our troops had hardly any resistance. The German position was opened heavy fire on the assault, but the necessary bayoneting of several counterattacks. About 7 a. m. Sunday the Germans made another determined effort. The attack was repulsed.

"Throughout Sunday the troops were held against our trench line. Once, toward evening, some obtained a footing at 6 p. m. our infantry charged with the bayonets, dislodged the Germans and secured the whole position. An hour later the hill was held in silence.

"On the material side of the general situation we are many places superior to the enemy in the very form of warfare in which we are originally best prepared, and in which the Germans until recently enjoyed great advantage. They have now the necessary troops and all technical equipment, including ballistics, electric light projectors, rockets, flares, incendiary bombs, and the like, and they are now in a position to harness the German and live their trench warfare. This is made possible by shelling, bombing, throwing, and sniping."

The photograph shows a wounded Senegalese trooper being massaged in a base hospital in Southern France. The native enjoys the operation as can be seen from the expression of joy on his face. France is taking the best of care of her territorial troops—the Africans from her southern possessions who are fighting so valiantly for the Tricolor. A special commissary provides the food for the Turks and Senegalese, who are rather fussy about their simple rations. They receive the best care in the hospitals being quartered directly with English and French wounded.

Pictures Seen at National Press Club, and Will Be Reproduced at Belasco Sunday Evening.

Members of the baseball squad of Harvard University and 100 newspaper men and their friends watched the first American presentation of "With the Fighting Forces in Europe" at the National Press Club last evening. These Kinetograph pictures were arranged by Charles Urban and show scenes of the army and naval forces in the countries now at war and taken soon after the declaration of war was made.

The witnesses traveled from Japan to Belgium, France, Germany, England, Russia, Serbia, Turkey, and then visited the Bulgarian and Greek canons, Aeroplanes, Zeppelins, giant dreadnoughts, battleships, and thousands upon thousands of soldiers and sailors were seen.

The pictures are reproduced in natural color, but these shades were impossible last evening. Therefore, the Kinetograph company has rented the Belasco Theater for next Sunday evening and will show them again in their colors before an audience exclusively of newspaper men, their families and friends.

The Harvard men who were the guests of Representative Roberts, of Massachusetts, at last evening's entertainment were Dr. Sexton, coach of the baseball team, Charles Briggs, "Tacks" Hardwick, and Capt. Mahan, players on the Harvard eleven and nine, Messrs. Watson, Stanford, Hart, and W. W. Garrett, the four White Sox players, and Messrs. Cummings, Nash, Abbott Reed, Frapp, Ganett, Goodridge, Ames, Phillips, Manager "Smoking" Assistant Manager Foreman, Parsons and Fowler.

EXTRA FREIGHT CHARGE ASSAILED BY LEAGUE

Imposition of "Spotting" Expense Subject of Arguments Before I. C. C.

Arguments were made before the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday upon the propriety of the imposition by railroads of a so-called spotting charge for taking cars to or from points on an industry's side tracks.

Chief arguments were made by Luther M. Walter, of Chicago, counsel for the National Industry Traffic League, an organization composed largely of traffic directors, managers and other officials in charge of industrial and commercial concerns throughout the United States, and by George S. Patterson, of Philadelphia, general counsel of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

Mr. Walter characterized as "revolutionary" the proposed extra transportation charge and declared that it could not be justified. "Industrial traffic men," he said, "some of them having had extensive railroad training and experience, have come forward and demonstrated that a charge of this character not only is unprecedented and unequal for, but productive of unavoidable discriminations and resulting in great injustice."

Attorney Patterson for the Pennsylvania Railroad alluded to the large cost entailed upon the carriers, rendering it necessary to make the extra charge for spotting cars. He said he believed after investigation into the operation of many commercial plants that the cost of delivering private rail tracks, including the service of spotting cars, could be done more cheaply by the industries than by the railroads.

The principle that the duty of the carrier ends at the switch connection was stressed by Mr. Patterson as sound and just, and he pointed out that the high cost of delivery on private tracks, and following a strict interpretation of the law is not obligated to deliver or receive freight from a private siding.

FISHERMEN ARE HEAVY LOSERS

Season Has Been Poor and Storm Carried Away Nets, Leaving Many Penniless.

Elizabeth City, N. C., April 22.—So far, this has been one of the poorest seasons the fishermen of northeastern North Carolina have had in years. In fact, it has been a failure. Few fishermen have made any money at all, most of them have lost money, while many have also lost their nets and fishing gear on account of the severe storm of a few weeks ago.

Much preparation was made for fishing this season. Large quantities of fishing material was purchased, a large amount of which was bought on time, the fishermen expecting to make money out of the fishing to pay for it. The season opened poor and has not improved.

At the time for the improvement to take place a furious storm visited this section, which damaged the nets and drove away the fish. The season is now too far advanced for the fishermen to retrieve their lost fortunes. The losses of this season fall heavily upon the people of the coast country, who have not any other means of livelihood and depend upon fishing altogether for their living.

PAN-AMERICAN PEACE PACTS ARE PROPOSED

Minister of Honduras Would Extend Bryan Treaty Plan Over Western Hemisphere.

That the plan of avoiding war by agreement between governments to submit their disputes to a period of impartial investigation, already embodied in the so-called Bryan "peace treaties," be embraced by all the governments of the Western Hemisphere is the proposal which has been made by Dr. Alberto Membrero, Minister of Honduras.

Dr. Membrero has prepared a memorandum setting forth his proposal and this has been submitted, through the Pan-American Union, to the governments of the republics of the American continent. Secretary Bryan made it public yesterday.

That Mr. Bryan had a part in the framing of the proposal is not doubted here. Through the treaties he has negotiated with more than twenty governments, Mr. Bryan has in the last eighteen months given great prominence to the idea of averting hostilities by effecting agreements that disputes not settled diplomatically shall be referred to impartial investigating commissions before there shall be any hostilities.

The Honduran proposal may also be regarded as based on a provision in the seventeenth convention of The Hague, which created an international commission of inquiry of whose services all signatory governments are supposed to avail themselves when in a dispute with another signatory government.

No immediate action is expected in any quarter on the Honduran Minister's proposal. The plan is regarded as containing a fatal weakness, in that no provision is made for any force to insure its being observed by all nations in the light of recent events in Europe, many are inclined to doubt if even the single treaties negotiated by Secretary Bryan would stand up under the stress of such situations as usually bring on war between two governments. It has been suggested that the United States might supply such force to back up such a general agreement among the American republics.

Men Pay Homage to Mother's Friend

"I am not surprised to observe the number of men who come into the store to purchase Mother's Friend," remarked a leading druggist.

It is a happy thought to send hubby to the drug store. "Mother's Friend" is applied externally over the abdominal muscles, soothes, lubricates, penetrates to the finest network of nerves beneath the skin and has a marked tendency to relieve the muscular strain to which these broad, flat abdominal muscles are subjected. The cords, tendons and ligaments are thus permitted to stretch without the corresponding surface strain so often involved during the period of expectation. This in part accounts for the entire absence, in many cases reported, of nausea, morning sickness or other distress, such as laceration of the epidermis so often the case when this gentle form of lubrication is neglected.

"Mother's Friend" has been highly recommended by a host of women who know from experience and by men who know from observation. Write Bradford Regulator Co., 308 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., and we will send you a valuable little book to expectant mothers.
